Our state of the art screen printing operation can handle the majority of techniques in demand today such as
All Over Printing • Discharge • Water Base • Plastisol • Rhinestones • Multi-color Flocking
Foil • Heat Press • Tie Dye / Specialty Dye • Novelty Inks & More

Large Format Printing

A part of the trend towards patterns, all over printing is an in demand technique among printers today. We have taken steps to customize our machines to handle printing up to 18"x24" which can handle most XL Men's t-shirts with ease. Proprietary processes have been developed here to optimize registration on the press and deliver the best print possible. The Culture Studio can handle up to 4 colors in any combination of plastisol, water base, discharge, flocking and foil.

Discharge & Water Based Printing

Many of today's t-shirt designs have a vintage or soft hand feel. Discharge printing feels apart of the fabric unlike regular plastisol printing, which has a more plastic or vinyl feel to it. However, discharge printing is much harder to control than regular plastisol printing and requires special steps to be taken to make sure production runs smoothly. Our operators are all experienced in solving these issues and limiting down time. Its transparent nature helps it in attaining a soft hand but limits its usefulness on dark colored garments.

Sublimation

Water based inks work well on light colored garments but not on dark garments. Discharge printing uses water based pigments with special discharge agents that will bleach out the color of fabric and leave the desired ink color. No white mask is needed on dark garments and the print will feel apart of the fabric. Our dryers have been setup specifically to handle discharge printing on fabrics from thin cotton jersey to thick denim.
